PUBLISHED JUNE 10, 1847.

THURSDAY, JULY 24, 1890.

Seven houses in Chicago fell yesterday. Eastern bank rates: New York exchange still at par. Sterling exchange dull. The stock market was inactive. Corn and provisions were feeble, while wheat was irregular within a narrow range, but was sustained by strong cables and some foreign buying. An estimate with Treasury gain closed 7½ cents lower, and our visible loses, where it once figured for December and 1½ cents higher for this month, were 1½ cents lower, while May, July, Sept. and December 1½ cents higher.

It is evident, now the excitement of the Republican State campaign has passed off, that the people of Illinois are not going to be stampeded by any such cry as that of "Democratic extravagance" which was raised by the Republican leaders in the last Legislature.

It is a proper time to-day to call attention to the fact that the Democratic State Committee has not yet called the State Convention together for the purpose of nominating a State ticket. The Democratic Convention ought to be called for the first week in August, and the Democratic State Committee should not delay the matter any longer.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the Democratic party of Illinois is in a better condition to-day than it has been for many years. It is united, harmonious, and enthusiastic. It has a platform which is satisfactory to the people, and it has candidates who will be satisfactory to the people. The Democratic party of Illinois is in a condition to win a victory, and it will win a victory if it is called together in time to put a ticket in the field.

The Democratic State Committee should not delay the matter any longer. It should call the Convention together at once.

THE BULL ROOM OF THE NEW RACE.

A period has now been reached in connection with the development of our new city when Chicagoans should endeavor to see the buildings of general interest, or around lively cities. The ornamental entrance, for the society in the street, and fortunes, flashing, and surroundings for evening. Its dependences on the convenience of an society, by clearing or attracting other resorts of the same class. But the actual fighting in rural matters must be done by the heavily armored battle shield, and as the chief object of having a party is to be able to fight when the necessity arises —or to impress that circumstance upon to a possible adversary which prevents a resort to arms—and as the law requires to hold those heavy arms in readiness for grave duties by months, it is important Congress should provide for improving the construction of a number of those vessels. The unarmored vessel is built to [illegible] and, as stated last week, [illegible] to the accident article on "The Future Navy" in the last number of the Arch previous there. "These ships," as were referring to the Baltimore, Philadelphia, Newark, San Francisco, and others of their class, "were designed expressly to [illegible] and [illegible] nothing about that added. What may be here to look it Enterprise, whose hull, like a whale into the sectional subject may not have a better chance of effect than it is yet not. Eleven have been sent for the navies of Great [illegible] average service has the idea.

Once every year Mr. John Davis, Aberdeen [illegible] a second statement. This is the one for 1890:

In the face of all who have to do with the present prosperity of the Aberdeen community, it must be a matter of congratulation to all [illegible] that Mr. John Davis has been induced to [illegible] a statement of the affairs of the Aberdeen Bank. [illegible] the public will be glad to learn that the [illegible] is in a very satisfactory condition, and that the bank is in a position to [illegible] the [illegible] of the community.

The bill of Mr. Cockrell concerning personal "gentlemen" of Messrs. Hoyt and Cockrell is good. The meaning is there in very fresh words and fashion—that "time cannot" for work to be [illegible] question should be handled. But the saying of men a week and the other a set to a personality work. The Interstate Commerce. The Interstate, which is itself a harbor of refuge for broken down officer seekers, ought to have much sympathy with Messrs. Hoyt and Cockrell.

THE NEW SIDE OF THE PUBLIC AND PRESS ANTIPODES.

The recent luncheon which was tendered him the cause of the female suffragists in England by the congregational women of that country was in our mind, the Tribune, and which took the form of a woman signed by [illegible] in the Protestant Century, has been [illegible] by a return for from 5,000 women who have placed themselves on record in the Fortnightly Review in favor of the parliamentary franchise for women. We have already printed the list of the prominent women who signed the protest. The list includes [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and

That lens is the sunlight, and that completes the picture.

What a chance to moralize. Sunlight, how we city people need it. If we could only let it into our lives sometimes by pressing a button, how it would—but hold, we must talk Kodaks not morals. This much we will say: If you want an enjoyable and healthful vacation, plenty of sunlight and a Kodak camera will help.

CAUTION.

The wonderful popularity attained by BURNETT'S PERFUME OF WOOD VIOLETS has induced many unscrupulous dealers to palm off so-called "Violet Extracts" for this delightful perfume. These "Violet Extracts", should on no account be compared with BURNETT'S PERFUME OF WOOD VIOLETS from the hardwood with the rose, and in this connection, for the information of the general public, we desire to state that we do not sell this perfume to Dry Goods or Department Stores, and we advise and urge the consumer to purchase of the reputable druggist, and thus insure themselves of the genuineness of the article.
